During an electrical storm last week Thursday night quite a number of buildings in Columbiana county were struck by lightning. The barn of Elmer Hasler, south of Lisbon, was burned with most of its contents. The home of Lon Boring in Lisbon was struck and Mrs. Boring was rendered unconscious for so long a period that it was feared she was dead. Her condition is improving.

A Columbiana correspondent writes: The county authorities began a search last week Wednesday for the body of Bert Tyson, whose disappearance nearly a year ago mystified the village. At first it was believed he had left home and police throughout the country were notified to look for him. Later his relatives furnished the authorities with facts which led to the theory that he had been murdered and his body buried somewhere near his home. For several weeks the authorities have been working on this clue and finally reached the conclusion that the body might be concealed and a search was ordered. The ground about the house and in other promising locations is being dug up in an effort to get some trace of the missing man's body. So far no arrests have been made.

COVINGTON WESTLAKE

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for County Auditor.

After serving as deputy to County Auditor I. M. Hogg four years I feel that my experience fits me for the position I now seek, that of Auditor of Mahoning County.

On account of my duties as deputy in the Auditor's office I find it impossible to get out and personally call upon all voters in the county, which I very much regret, and I take this method of soliciting your support at the Republican primaries to be held Tuesday, August 11.

Very respectfully,
COVINGTON WESTLAKE.

M. CAILLAUX READS SLAIN MAN'S WILL

TRIES TO PROVE EDITOR SOLO INFLUENCE OF HIS NEWS-PAPER TO HUNGARY.

Husband of Woman on Trial for Murder Declares Author Who Defended Calmette's Memory Once Deserted From the French Army.

Paris, France.—The taking of testimony in the murder trial of Mme. Caillaux, charged with the murder of Gaston Calmette, editor of Le Figaro, was brought to a close Monday amid extraordinary excitement. Less than an hour before the last of the evidence was put in, M. Caillaux, husband of the defendant, ex-premier of France and most popular politician of the republic, himself took the stand and read the will of the man his wife had killed to prove that Calmette and Le Figaro had sold the influence of that great newspaper to Hungary for a consideration in money.

Fourth Duel Challenge Issued. Duel challenges, which are becoming a daily accessory of the opera bouffe trial, were augmented by another Monday afternoon when M. Caillaux went on the stand, as a matter of personal privilege and when he had finished reading the will of Calmette and other incriminating papers, declared that Henri Bernstein, the author who defended Calmette's memory Saturday, had no standing in court because he had in his youth deserted from the French army and deserted in a most cowardly way.

Mme. Caillaux, the nominal defendant, whose personality has sunk into obscurity since the trial developed into an arraignment of Caillaux and Le Figaro for treason, showed some interest in her husband's attack on Bernstein. She smiled on him and at the climax of his diatribe clapped her hands.

Bernstein took the stand next and announced amid cheers that he would send his seconds to Caillaux and that, if Caillaux had the courage to meet him, one of the principals would leave the field dead. This was the fourth duel challenge that has come from the judges or the witnesses in the case.

It was received with a hilarious uproar by the audience, which the chief judge, himself a challenging duelist in the case, promptly ordered cleared from the room.

Reads Dead Editor's Will. Caillaux's reading of the dead Calmette's will was punctuated by his own commentaries.

"I call your attention," he said dramatically, "to the singularly rapid increase of M. Calmette's fortune. He disposes of $2,550,000, and he says in that will, 'the greater part of the fortune which I leave comes from a personal gift to me by Mme. Boursin, it being understood that I pay her an income therefrom during my life.' The disposition to Calmette of this fortune she derived from M. Chaudard in a manner it were better not to dwell upon. I will not comment upon; but his own and his paper's traffic with the Hungarian government is a matter which the country has a right to know of. The increase of his fortune from nothing to the amount left in his will is a disgrace to the fair name of France."

Denounces Correspondent. Caillaux continued his invectives denouncing M. Flagey, a correspondent of Le Figaro, who had testified that Caillaux had offered him $200 to testify in behalf of his wife.

Corpse Rides at Throttle. Sterling, Ill.—A dead man held the lives of several score passengers on the Overland limited in his cold, lifeless hand. When the train entered Sterling at 60 miles an hour, there came a sign of alarm. A young man, a Frenchman, investigated and found the corpse of Engineer Louis Van Vlack leaning from the cab window, his hand on the throttle, and staring ahead with sightless eyes.

The coroner reported that Van Vlack had been dead from heart disease.

MINISTERS ARE MOBBED

PREACHERS ARE ASSAILED WHEN THEY WOULD AID NATIVES TO SPURN IDOLS.

Washington, July 29.—How six preachers were roughly handled by the police when they attempted to rescue natives, who were being dragged through the streets of a village near Chinkiang, China, because they refused to worship idols, is told in a letter to the Seventh Day Adventists' headquarters here, from Elder R. C. Porter, head of the Asiatic division of the church. According to Elder Porter an official at Le Li Tien thought the people were suffering because they failed to worship idols.

'Hop Ale' Is Barred. Bellefontaine, O., July 29.—"Hop ale" is barred in Logan county. The drink has become so popular in this dry community that Prosecuting Attorney Long had samples analyzed and he says the drink shows a larger percentage of alcohol than beer.

Foul Play Is Suspected. Steubenville, O., July 29.—The body of Vito Carducci, 34, was found in the water tank at the Glens Run mine. He had been missing for a week. Foul play is suspected, as the boy could not have gotten into the tank alone.

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for County Surveyor

I have aimed to faithfully perform my duties as County Surveyor in the past and hope my record is so good that you will feel justified in giving me your support at the primaries August 11, 1914.

Medicine In Food.

The garden is a great medicine chest. By your own doctor and look to your own ailments.

If you are wakeful eat lettuce. For affections of the skin and for yellow skin eat onions. Onions are also good for colds, coughs, scrofula.

For a torpid liver eat freely of asparagus.

If the bowels are diseased try blackberries.

For malaria and general breakdown eat cranberries.

If nervous and irritable eat plenty of celery.

For constipation eat fruit, ripe and healthy fruits. Fresh fruits are good; so are figs and dates. Raisins are beneficial.

When the body is in good condition keep it in good condition by denying the appetite what has once injured the body. One can do everything for himself by eating the right thing and not too much of it and by leaving alone the wrong thing and all of it. He can do more than doctors can do for him when he is flat on his back in bed.—Nautilus.

"THE BIG STORE"

Youngstown's Best Store for Values

The 33rd Semi-Annual Lockhart Mill-End Sale

Starts Thursday, August 6th, and will be continued about ten days.

This is the Only Mercantile Event in the World That Has Gained a National Reputation

The Fame of the Lockhart Mill-End Sale has spread from city to city, house to house all over the United States and Canada until the name "Lockhart" is passed from lip to lip with shouts of gladness wherever it is advertised. Mr. Lockhart is a great favorite with our people for his personal kindness, thoughtfulness and variable honest methods of doing business. His progress and achievements are applauded by everybody. The signalized weapons of strength that have commanded the confidence and respect of the big Mill-End crowds from season to season are the facts, the merchandise is new and always follows strictly in the path of the advertising; nothing inflated and nothing misrepresented. Mr. Lockhart's public talks in our store have touched the hearts of his listeners because of his artistic manner in delivering them and because our customers have found out that he never mentions anything in the store not of unusual merit. There is no sounding of brass or tinkling of cymbals about this man or his business. They stand alone and over-balance all other mercantile events and unfold before the eyes of society the newest fashions and best standard quality brought from the mills to delight and surprise every buyer. This sale is brought to our store because through it our customers have advantages in buying impossible to give them in any other way. The crowds are always immense, just like a great fair, so come early in the morning.

The G. M. McKelvey Company, Youngstown, Ohio
